Cannabis Science

To truly enjoy the possible advantages of Dana Perino Third-Party Tested CBD Gummies Wellness Supplements, one must be aware of the science underlying CBD. Homeostasis is maintained in large part by the endocannabinoid system (ECS), a sophisticated cell-signaling mechanism found in humans. There are three primary parts to the ECS: ;

- Natural substances called endocannabinoids resemble cannabinoids found in cannabis plants. Many physiological systems are helped to control by them.
- Pain, mood, and immunological response are just a few of the many activities that receptors—which are distributed throughout the body—are involved in. Mainly present in the brain and central nervous system, CB1 is one of the two primary receptors; the immune system is home to CB2.
- Once endocannabinoids have performed their job, enzymes break them down.

Though it does not attach directly to CB1 or CB2 receptors, CBD interacts with the ECS by affecting the activation of receptors and enzymes. The health advantages linked to CBD may result from this interaction's modulation of several physiological systems.
