The Science of CBD

Found in the cannabis plant, CBD is a non-psychoactive chemical. It interacts with the endocannabinoid system (ECS), which controls many physiological processes including pain, mood, hunger, and immunological response and is hence quite important. Earthmed CBD Gummies™ Cannabis Extract can support general wellbeing and aid to preserve equilibrium by interacting with ECS receptors.

Three primary components make up the ECS: endocannabinoids, receptors, and enzymes. Naturally occurring substances in the body, endocannabinoids attach to cannabinoid receptors to control several processes. present largely in the brain and central nervous system, CB1 is the main receptor; CB2 is present in immune cells and the peripheral nervous system.
